Deaths of a Day

Mrs. Amelia H. Winterer
Mrs. Amelia H. Winterer, widow of William A. Winterer, former paying teller at the United States subtreasury in this city, who died Monday, will be buried tomorrow in Arlington Cemetery. Her funeral will be from the home of her son-in-law, Jenks B. Robinson, treasurer of the North American, 236 Mather road, Jenkintown, where she died.

Mrs. Winterer was seventy-one years old, and her death was caused by kidney disease. She was a member of the Lutheran Church of the Incarnation, Cedar avenue and Forty-seventh street, whose pastor, the Rev. N. B. Melhorn, will conduct her funeral.

Mrs. Winterer is survived by six children. They are Mrs. Therese Robinson, William A. Jr., and George H. Winterer, of this city; Samuel J. Randall, of Minneapolis; Blanch A. Lounsbury, of Brooklyn; and Florence A., wife of the Rev. Luther B. Deck, of Minneapolis.

David Potter

David Potter, a retired textile manufacturer, who for many years was engaged in the manufacture of upholstery goods and later of art loom rugs, died Monday night at his home, 6832 Ditman street, Tacoma, where he was born in Ireland seventy years ago, and came to this country when a young man. For many years he was an elder and trustee of the Twelfth United Presbyterian Church. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity.

He is survived by four children, Mrs. John A. Artman, Mrs. William Barusch, David J. Potter and Samuel Potter.

Randolph J. Faussett

Randolph J. Faussett, aged sixty-five, formerly of this city, died of pneumonia Monday at his home in Norwood, Cincinnati. After his removal to Cincinnati Mr. Faussett engaged in the hardware business. His father, James T. Faussett, was a widely known dry goods merchant. A widow, a daughter, Mrs. William Shawe, of Cincinnati, and a sister, Mrs. Blancha Bellak, of Washington, survive.

Edward Baxt

Edward Baxt, proprietor of the Franklin Water Company, 1361 Germantown avenue, one of the largest ice cream manufacturing plants in the city, died yesterday at his home on York road, Abington. Mr. Baxt, who was forty-two years old, came here several years ago from New York. He is survived by his widow and two children.

C. D. Hotchkiss, Editor, Dead

Doylstown, Pa., Jan. 14.—(By A. P.)—Clarence D. Hotchkiss, editor of the Doylstown Intelligencer, died suddenly today from an attack of neuralgia of the heart. Mr. Hotchkiss, in his youth, worked as a reporter on various Philadelphia newspapers, coming to Doylstown thirty-two years ago. He had been editor and part owner of the Intelligencer since 1909. Mr. Hotchkiss was sixty-two years old. He is survived by a widow and a son and daughter.

Charles E. Sheckler

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 14.—Charles E. Sheckler, for forty years chief of police of Catawqua, died of pneumonia, aged seventy-two.

Rev. Dr. M. P. Laros

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 14.—The Rev. Dr. Malcolm P. Laros, of Lionville, Chester county, widely known Reformed pastor, died of complications while visiting his mother here.

The experience of others isn't half as convincing as your own. That's why our best argument is our demonstration lesson of our different Collins' method.

Let us give you this personal demonstration.

MOORE MEN MADE COMMITTEE HEADS

F. A. Burch Named Chairman of Finance Body, J. A. Develin Made Law Head

VARE LEADERS FOR POST

Chairmen for two important committees of the new city Council were decided upon today at a conference between Mayor Moore and Richard Wegelin, president of the Council.

Francis F. Burch will be chairman of the new finance committee. He is a lawyer and was a member of the old finance committee.

James A. Develin will be chairman of the new law committee.

Both Mr. Burch and Mr. Develin are members of the Independent Republican majority, or "the Moore element."

Joseph P. Gaffney, who was chairman of the old finance committee, will be a member of the new body.

It was said today that at least two members of the Council minority, or "Vare ten," will be made committee chairmen. There are twelve chairmanships to be filled.

The minority members who are mentioned as possible chairmen of committees are Edward Buchholz, who conferred today with Mr. Wegelin; Charles B. Hall and Joseph P. Gaffney.

The chairmen and the full committees will be announced at the meeting of the Council next Tuesday.

SPEED UP TO SAVE LIQUOR

Coaling of Ship Hastened So Big Shipment Can Get to Sea

On the speed with which the steamship Western Comet bonds its supply of fuel at the Greenwich Point coaling pier depends the safety of 25,000 barrels of liquor consigned to French dealers.

The liquor is a part of the great shipment from the Kentucky distillers to Atlantic ports, in a last effort to get the ship out of the country before the dark cloud settles at midnight on Friday.

By that time the Western Comet must be well on her way at sea, outside the three-mile limit, or the liquor is still in the jurisdiction of the United States and liable to confiscation. Stevedores and the crew of the ship worked desperately the past few days getting the cargo under the hatches. An hour after the customs officials had sealed the holds at Girard Point the Western Comet was on her way to Greenwich Point for fuel.

NEW ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

Carroll R. Thompson Named as Aide to Sproule

Carroll R. Thompson, assistant engineer in the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, has been appointed by George F. Sproule as assistant director. Mr. Thompson succeeds Joseph F. Hassel.

The new assistant director lives at 618 Locust avenue, Roxborough, in the Twenty-first ward. He is thirty-four years old and was graduated from the Central Manual Training School.

McAllister Continues in Job

William G. McAllister, superintendent of the Philadelphia General Hospital and the Home for the Indigent, will be continued in the city's service until reorganization is effected in accordance with the new city charter. Director Furbush, of the Department of Health, said so today.

J. BENJAMIN DIMMICK
Former mayor of Scranton, who died last night in Canada

J. BENJAMIN DIMMICK DEAD

Former Mayor of Scranton and Candidate for U. S. Senator

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 14.—J. Benjamin Dimmick, former mayor of Scranton and candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator in 1914, died last night at Stratford, Ontario. He was taken ill a week ago, while in Canada, and failed to rally from an operation. The body will be brought here for burial.

Mr. Dimmick was sixty-two years old. He was a native of Honesdale. His father was the first attorney general of Pennsylvania under the constitution of 1873. Mr. Dimmick was a member of the bar, but devoted his time to his interests in financial and industrial circles. He was head of the Scranton Lumber Co. He served as mayor of Scranton from 1902 to 1906. Mrs. Dimmick and two daughters survive.

In 1914 Mr. Dimmick made a tour of Pennsylvania as a senatorial candidate. He was chairman of the mine cave commission named by Governor Tompkins in 1911.

MRS. J. A. McCLUNG DIES

Widow of Confederate Veteran Succumbs at Daughter's Home Here

Mrs. J. A. McClung died yesterday, after a week's illness, at the home of her son-in-law, Commander Nelson H. Goss, of 2551 South Twenty-first street.

Mrs. Goss was with her at the time of her death, but her other daughter, Mrs. Frederic J. Horne, arrived an hour too late.

Mrs. Horne, who is wife of Captain Horne, of the United States navy, was in San Diego, Calif., when Mrs. McClung was taken ill. Accompanied by her husband, she hurried back to Philadelphia and arrived yesterday, after her mother's death.

Mrs. McClung was the widow of Major J. R. McClung, an officer in the Confederate army.

Man Who Tried Suicide May Die

James Anderson, sixty years old, of 3521 Queen lane, Falls of Schuylkill, who attempted suicide by shooting himself over the heart with a revolver at his home yesterday, is in a critical condition at St. Timothy's Hospital and may die. No cause has been assigned for his act except his excessive nervous condition.

EXPECT "WEEDING" IN WORKS BUREAUS

Dropping of Seventeen Street Inspectors Seen as First Step by Winston

RUMOR DUNLAP IS TO GO

The dropping of seventeen street inspectors from the city's payroll by Director Winston, of the Department of Public Works, is the beginning of steps to weed out several hundred men in the highway, water, survey and city property bureaus.

The report on the dirty condition of Philadelphia's streets by D. C. Lincoln Furbush, director of Dials, is believed to have spurred Director Winston to get rid of the seventeen inspectors. The director explains that he was forced to drop the men because the Council failed to appropriate sufficient money to pay their salaries.

A flood of letters, all complaining about the condition of the city's streets, flows into Director Furbush's office every day.

JEWISH DRIVE GAINS

Half-Year Mark Reached in Charity Campaign, Teams Told

Subscriptions amounting to nearly half of the $1,000,000 needed and the offer of the spacious home at Torresdale by Dr. Louis Schwarz are encouraging workers today in the drive for the benefit of the Federation of Jewish Charities.

In the two days of the campaign contributions have amounted to $22,431. Colonel Samuel Lit, in announcing the amount of the subscriptions to the 600 captains and team workers at the Bellevue-Stratford yesterday, said that he believes $1,250,000 would be raised.

Jacob Billikopf, the executive director of the Federation of Jewish Charities, told of Director Schwarz's offer of his home and grounds for use as a home for Jewish convalescents. The announcement was greeted with cheers.

FIND KIDDIES IN COAL BOX

Runaways Almost Unconscious From Cold When Rescued

Jennie Montgomery, ten years old, and William Downey, nine years old, stepbrother and sister, 906 Union street, were found shortly after 3 o'clock this morning in a coal box at Twelfth and Lombard streets, where they had wandered after running away from their home yesterday afternoon.

Patrolmen Dorsey and Harding, of the Twelfth and Pine streets police station, took the children, who were half-unconscious with the cold, to the Polyclinic Hospital, where they were given hot food. They were then turned over to the matron of the Twelfth and Pine streets station, and their parents were notified of their whereabouts.

CONCERT FOR SOCIAL WORK

Russian Orchestra and East Indian Dancer to Entertain Here

The Russian Symphony Orchestra will give a concert at the Metropolitan Opera House on Saturday afternoon, January 24, under the auspices of the board of managers of the Haberman Hospital. Roshanara, the East Indian dancer, will also appear at the performance.

The proceeds will be devoted to social service work in connection with the hospital.

The following officers were elected: Bernard Dager, president; Charles Pliedder, vice president; John Albany, secretary, and James Cosgrove, treasurer. Dr. George Shanno and the new officers spoke.

ARRESTED AS SLAYER

Discharged Soldier Taken in Connection With Killing of Jitney Driver

Hector McLennan, a discharged soldier, was arrested by Burlington county detectives yesterday at Atison, N. J., in connection with the death of John Wormwood, a Camp Dix driver, who was found unconscious on the Wrightstown-Trenton road Saturday night. He later died in the Camp Dix Hospital after telling that he had been beaten and robbed by three men in army uniforms, one of whom carried a black satchel. A bag of this description was found yesterday at Mansfield Square, between Georgetown and Burlington, containing a blood-stained army shirt. McLennan is the only man in the description of one of the slayers, and was arrested yesterday through a telephone message from Medford, N. J. He refused to divulge any information other than his name. He will be taken to the county jail at Mount Holly today and questioned.

DR. 'X' GRADUALLY REMEMBERING PAST

Wandering Physician, at Son's Home Here, Recollects Some of Mysterious Travels

SIMILAR CASE IN CAMDEN

Dr. John L. Brand, victim of amnesia, who mysteriously disappeared in 1913, until his identity was established, is at the home of his son, Lieutenant Commander Charles L. Brand, at 2518 South Twenty-second street.

He is gradually recovering his memory, and is able to discuss clearly some incidents in connection with his wanderings, but he is not being urged to answer questions. Efforts are being centered today toward restoring his health, in the belief that with renewed strength his full memory will return.

Doctor Brand was brought here from Lambertville, N. J., yesterday.

"I believe that my father's memory will be completely restored," said his son, "but it will not be a matter of twenty-four hours. It will take time."

Doctor Brand remembers his son, and strenuous old associations seem to be doing him good. Mrs. Brand, who went to live with her daughter in Leavenworth, Kan., after her husband disappeared in 1913, is now in Massachusetts, where she is waiting for a man in the county almshouse known as "George Norman," whose memory does not go back further than February 21, when he was found at the Pennsylvania ferry. He seems to be a man of education. All efforts to establish his identity have failed.

But for his blank memory, the man is intelligent. He is now an efficient assistant of Superintendent Jaggard, of the almshouse. He reads the newspapers and takes a great interest in the case of Doctor Brand.

"George Norman" is about sixty-two years old.

Health Campaign for Gloucester

The Gloucester City Board of Health has decided that a campaign of education is necessary to show to residents the importance of keeping homes and yards clean, especially in the boathouse district.

THREE Furnishing Goods Items that are worth while

Men's Silk Half Hose (Clocked) Black and Colors, $1.50—the mill price today is higher than this.

Mercerized Cheviot Pajamas, $5.00. Made from a splendid cloth which we bought at pre-war prices.

Knitted Silk Four-in-Hands at $3.50—day's wholesale price is considerably higher.

We cite these as examples of Reed's value-giving—they are not reduced goods at all, but simply a few demonstrations of our ability and willingness to supply high-class merchandise at a fair profit regardless of what the "market prices" would justify.
